

On February 16 and March 2, 2019, the people of Nigeria would go to the polls in Presidential, Gubernatorial and Legislative elections. This would be the sixth multi-party elections in Nigeria since the end of military rule in 1999. For this reason, it represents a watershed in the annals of democratic governance and the quest to consolidate democracy in the political landscape of the country.

p.p1 {margin: 0.0px 0.0px 0.0px 0.0px; font: 12.0px Helvetica}